Martians invade earth

Incredible as it may seem, it has been confirmed that a large martian invasion fleet has landed on earth tonight.

First vessels were sighted over Great Britain, Denmark and Norway already in the late evening from where, as further reports indicate, the fleet headed towards the North Pole and Santa Claus was taken hostage by the invaders.

Afterwards they split apart in order to approach most major cities around the earth. The streets filled as thousands fled their homes, many only wearing their pajamas...

London is on the brink of an unprecedented school crisis with 118,000 children facing being left without a place by 2016.

Urgent action is needed to tackle this crisis which could reach "chronic" levels in three years. London Councils asked the Government for more than £1 billion to build new schools.

Peter John, head of children's services at London Councils, said "Boroughs are working harder than ever to ensure every child has a school place. However we are fast reaching the limit of how many extensions and conversions can be made to existing buildings. Soon the only way of creating extra places will be by building new schools.
